Volunteer of the Month for June!

Terry McElligott is one of those wonderful human beings who lives a life of service. She came to volunteer at Newberg Area Habitat in early 2024, and we are so glad she did! Because of her background in school administration for the Newberg School District, she was already familiar with some of our Habitat homeowner families. She began by interviewing families and staff for the monthly newsletter she started, then made her way through projects at our main office. One of her main projects was to organize and archive old files and rearrange the office layout. If there are special projects to do, she is ready and willing to tackle them with gusto. She has even assisted with the interview process for new staff, bringing her wealth of experience.

Thank you Terry!

Group Builds!

This past weekend, we had the pleasure of welcoming the veterans group from A-dec to our build site! As a proud Newberg-based company, their support truly hits home. The team jumped right in — cleaning windows, wrapping one of the homes on College Street, and adding fresh coats of paint. Their hard work and heart made a real impact. We're grateful for their service — both past and present!

We were thrilled to welcome back a fantastic team of volunteers from Eaton Corporation to our build site this year! Having had them join us last year, it was a joy to see some familiar faces return — bringing the same energy, teamwork, and commitment to building safe, affordable homes in our community. Thank you, Eaton Corp!

This fall we're joining Rural Rally! Newberg Area Habitat for Humanity (NAHFH) is proud to take part in the inaugural Habitat for Humanity International Rural Rally, a new initiative highlighting the need for affordable housing in rural America. This effort is part of the Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project.

1 out of every 4 households in rural America spend more than 30% of their monthly income on housing costs. NAHFH will join the Rural Rally by making a focused home building push during the last week of October in Newberg. Bringing together more volunteer groups and rally community support to complete one of our homes—a key step in our growing North College Street project.

Volunteer with Us!

We're currently seeking a Grant Writer to support our mission — flexible for up to 10 hours per week. This role can be structured as a volunteer opportunity or a paid position. If you have a passion for storytelling, nonprofit work, and securing funding for affordable housing, we'd love to hear from you! Send resumes to director@newberghabitat.org.

At Newberg Area Habitat for Humanity, volunteers do it all—building homes, completing home repairs, serving on committees, supporting the ReStore, and keeping our office running. Their time and talents make our mission possible.

Our volunteers come from all backgrounds—students, retirees, tradespeople, faith groups, and business teams—united by a shared purpose: building safe, affordable homes right here in the Newberg area.

Every volunteer brings us closer to a world where everyone has a decent place to live.
